R.M.S. 8

Holland-America Line

In the communist experiment several factors and inevitable developments have emerge which Marx and Engles could not possibly have foreseen. These emerges with increasing clarity two monumental mistakes which Marx and Engles made, not to mention the very ~~for~~ key stone of Marx's economic theory "the doctrine of surplus ~~value~~ value which has always been unshaken and controversial.

The first mistake is fairly well known even at this stage in the communist development as it was called the "withering away of the state" ~~that~~ ~~controlled~~ however many emphasized that the abolisation of classes would lead to the gradual reduction of state apparatus. however this is not the case and is better observed than contemplated, the state rather becomes more extensive in that while the powers of entire ministries or delagated they are not reduced in the dividing of the organ of state power into smaller units at lower levels so although the some ~~of~~ ministries have actually disappeared in moscow they have become more entrenched than ever at lower levels thus

235