Future Defenders Group Is Formed By Tory Students

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Reactionary students at Loyola University announced yesterday that would organize a militarist organization called Defenders of America on a national scale in order to offset the influence gained by the Veterans of Future Wars, which the founders of the new organization consider to be subversive.

The aims of the future defenders are "to correct the false impression that has been created at home and abroad that American youth is in harmony with the moronic movement which attempts to ridicule patriotic traditions of our country."
