

Mrs. Dilling Twits Adversaries With Songs in Court Lobby

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, veteran foe of Communism, lampooned her adversaries by singing parodies to her followers today in the lobby of the United States Court of Appeals after the judges had taken under advisement her appeal from an order that she be tried in Washington on a charge of sedition.

Members of her mothers' group, the "Friends of Washington Principles Defense Party," tittered as she sang "B-B-Baloney" to the tune of "K-k-k-katy" and "Vulture Vinchell" to the tune of "Jingle Bells."

The first song was an attack on William Power Maloney, Special Assistant Attorney General who is prosecuting a charge that she conspired to undermine the morale of the Nation's armed forces. The second was a continuance of her feud with Walter Winchell, columnist.

Judges Evan A. Evans, J. Earl Major and Otto Kerner heard arguments from counsel for the Government and Mrs. Dilling.

Mrs. Dilling was ordered removed to Washington by a Federal District Court, upholding a similar order by a Federal commissioner.
