

From the Harrisburg Patriot, 1/16/39; p. 7, col. 5.

Dies spoke at the close of a two-^{day} conference of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Assn.

In part the quote goes: "...When I hear of people trying to put property rights on one hand and human rights on the other hand, I am reminded that there never has been a country in which people lost their property rights that they didn't lose their human rights.."

From the Harrisburg Patriot, 1/18/39; p.8, col. 7

"A house in Harrisburg was leased on Monday (Jan. 16) to Col. Carl L. Estes, Texas publisher and oil man and confidential advisor of Gov. James.

"Col. Estes, who accompanied Gov. James over the State during the primary and general elections, leased the ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~ former residence of Franklin Moore, 2535 N. Front St. He has installed his own cook..."

James was inaugurated on Tuesday, January 17, 1939.