DIES INQUIRY FOUND FAVORED BY VOTERS

75% of Those Asked in Gallup Survey Believe Committee

Should Be Continued 17 WEEKS SLIGHT DROP IN 6

Criticism by President and

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Held

Reason for Decline

in January, to extend the investiga-tions into 1940. "The institute has on two previous occasions sounded the public's at-titude toward the Dies committee. A year ago 74 per cent of voters with views on the subject favored continuing the committee. Six weeks ago 79 per cent with opinions on the investigation were in favor of continuation. In this study it was found that when voters were divided into three groups—those in favor of continu-ing the committee, those opposed to continuation, and those who had not heard or read of the committee or had no opinion—the group fa-voring continuation formed a major-ity, or 53 per cent, of all voters. "This latter study had just been completed when President Roose-velt criticized the committee, de-scribing as a 'sorid procedure' its publication of the names of 563 government employees seized in the files of the League for Peace and Democracy, an alleged 'front' for the Communist party. The insti-tute anounced at the time that it would conduct another survey to test the public's reaction to the crit-icisms by th President and others. "'A comparison of sentiment be-fore and after the President's re-marks follows: Continue the Dies Committee? Yes. No. Scribing as a 'sorid procedure' its publication of the names of 563 government employees seized in the publication of the League for Peace and Demogracy, an alleged 'front' for the Communist party. The insti-tict anounced at the time that it would conduct another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and another survey to the communist party. The insti-tice and after the president and others. "A comparison of sentiment be-fore and after the President's re-marks follows: "A the present time, 75 per cent of those who have an opinion about the investigation think the Dies committee should be continued. The issue put to the voters was: 'Should Congress provide money to continue the Dies committee an-other year?' Congressman Martin Dies of Texas is seeking an appro-priation, when Congress convenes