Muster Asks If Attack on
Peace League Means
He Wants War

Morris Muster, international president of the United Furniture Workers, CIO, yesterday accused John P. Frey of preferring "to join hands openly with National Manufacturers' Association, a notorious anti-labor group," than fight for improvement of conditions.

Muster, in an answer to A. F. L. chief's slanders before the Dies Committee said that Frey states I am among the leaders of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"Does he wish to create the impression that he is conversely in favor of war and fascism? I'm not as choosy as Mr. Frey. In the struggle that I have undertaken against the forces of reaction and for the workers that I represent, I will even join hands with John P. Frey, although I'll do a good job of washing my hands when the necessity for joint action is over."

Muster accused Frey of "mudslinging," denying that he is a Communist. The CIO union leader stressed that "the need for cooperative action among the underprivileged of this country has never been greater than today and the John P. Freys and their ilk are doing no good to the labor movement, which for 50 years has tried to throw off the incubus of ineffectual leadership."

PAINT FROM HAGUE'S CAN, SAYS ISSERMAN

Abraham J. Isserman, labor attorney, named by John P. Frey in testimony before the Dies Committee, yesterday accused the A. F. L. leader of using "the same can of red paint which Mayor Hague used to paint all of the progressive forces in New Jersey as Communists."

Isserman said that his office has "never considered it un-American to fight for the rights of minority groups, guaranteed to them under our State and Federal constitutions. We have never considered it un-American to assist labor's battle for self-organization and through self-organization and collective bargaining, for a larger share in the national income."

FREY LABELED ENEMY OF UNEMPLOYED

Willis Morgan, president of the Workers Alliance of Greater New York, yesterday labeled John P. Frey as "one of the most dangerous enemies of the unemployed in the city and country."

"It is extremely deplorable that the insane rumor mongering of a dodgards should be given nationwide publicity without the organizations involved being given a chance to meet the charges."
