O'Toole Urges Deportation of Nazi Bund Aid

Charges Winterschiedt Has Done More to Stir Up Racial Feelings Than Any Other Man in United States

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).— Representative Donald L. O'Toole, Democrat, of New York, today described Severin Winterschiedt, 64 Himrod Street, Brooklyn, as the chief propagandist for the Nazi German-American Bund and asked his deportation.

O'Toole informed Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, that Winterschiedt had been arrested twice during the last four months on morals charges and "has done perhaps more to stir up racial and religious feelings than any other individual in the United States."

Winterschiedt, he added, was not a citizen.

Dickstein Backs Move

Representative Samuel Dickstein, Democrat, of New York, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, said he was gathering information concerning Winterschiedt which he would present to the Labor Department in support of O'Toole's demand for a deportation warrant. Dickstein described Winterschiedt as "an alien propagandist who should be deported."

"We examined him in 1934 during the Congressional investigation of un-American activities," said Dickstein, chairman of the dormant House un-American Activities Investigating Committee.

"At that time we found he was working as an agent and propagandist for the Friends of New Germany. Subsequently he returned to Germany, but later came back to this country when the German-American Bund was organized under Fritz Kuhn."

Appeals as Citizen

O'Toole, in his letter to Secretary Perkins, said he was writing "both as a citizen of Brooklyn and in my official capacity as a Representative of the 8th Congressional District of New York."

"I am demanding the deportation of Severin Winterschiedt, of 64 Himrod Street, Brooklyn, New York. This man is not a citizen of the United States and, despite that fact, he has been serving as the chief propagandist for Kuhn's German-American Nazi Bund in the United States. He has done perhaps more to stir up racial and religious feeling than any other individual in the United States. Not being satisfied with his activities in this field he has taken upon himself a line of endeavor that is rarely mentioned in polite society."

"If it is necessary that there be a sponsor to the charges prerequisite to deportation, I should be most happy to put my name to the formal complaint."

"The country and all of its citizens," O'Toole added, "will be much better off if it gets rid of this gentleman."
