New Moon, who says he is an Indian chief, is pictured on a swastika-draped stand as he addressed members of the German-American Bund at their camp near Andover, N. J. The German-Americans applauded his praise of Mayor Hague and his criticism of teachers who oppose the political boss.

Bund in Jersey Finds Anti-Red In Indian Chief

Special Dispatch to New York Post
ANDOVER, N. J., July 5.—Cherokee Chief New Moon, a descendant of America's original red men, urged about 2,000 members of the German-American Bund at Camp Nordland near here yesterday to "get those damn Communists out of America once and for all."

Chief New Moon was the principal speaker at the camp's Fourth of July celebration and the only one to address the gathering in English.

Japan, the Spanish insurgents and the Bund are fighting Communism, he said, and the Bund's members and the Indians are the "only true Americans."

The Indians, he charged, are the victims of a persecution that "very few people know about here," with Commissioner John Collier as "dictator."

A "Communitistic city" has been set up, he asserted, in Navajo, Ariz., and efforts are being made to "teach Communism" on the reservations.
