

Vonsiatsky Plotted Against Soviet Ally

Justice Dept. Cites Evidence Against Fascist Here

A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent's affidavit yesterday accused Anastase A. Vonsiatsky of founding a "Russian National Revolutionary" party whose purpose is "a military expedition in conjunction with the Japanese and German Governments against the present Russian Government."

Vonsiatsky's home at Thompson, Conn., was raided by Federal agents May 9 and a Federal Grand Jury at Hartford, Conn., began examination yesterday of records seized there.

The affidavit was filed by Special Agent J. Raymond Ylitalo in obtaining search warrants for the rooms of the Rev. Alexander Tsuglevitch, on New York's West Side, and T. Savin, in Queens, both described as branch offices of the party. Other branches, according to the warrant, were in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Ylitalo's affidavit said:

"The revolutionary party maintains headquarters in the home of its founder, Anastase A. Vonsiatsky, in Thompson, Conn.

"In that residence are the party records, files, membership lists, all papers and account books relating to the financing of the organization, military equipment, guns, rifles, ammunition, pistols, tear gas and tear gas equipment, uniforms, military insignia, machines for recording, speeches and other oral utterances, all of which are used as instruments for violation of federal laws and, more particularly, for the purposes of inciting party members and others to overthrow the present Russian Government by force and violence."

The affidavit said further that Vonsiatsky had shown by statements and writings that he has served a foreign government, though he is not registered as a foreign agent.
