Dear Jim,

When it has been possible for me to get a student to search for me their searches have not been good.

When Jerry McKnight was here yesterday for a few moments he found the OS record Marwell wanted from me - about which I first wrote ARRB last year - exactly where I told him to look. So please, as soon as you can, send me those Who's Who pages on punt. Getting this record and seeing in it no reason for not giving it to the general counsel, suggests something else I want to do as soon as I can.

That board is spinning its wheels, aided and abetted by those who fancy their intelligence and understand ^{it} exceeds that of normal humans and is ^{then} dumping all that theory gibberish on it.

In wasting time that way, as it is about to do with the yankee and the cowboys subject-matter ignoramus and a few others, like the ^{guy} who though he knew too much but not about the assassination itself, about which he knows nothing at all, what the board is doing is not inconsistent with covering its own ass for its coming failures by saying it listened to all.

I'm going to try to carry this forward when I can. I'll keep you informed.

best,

So why did OS not send that record or anything else to the CIA's general counsel is what Marwell et al should be wondering about and learning from the CIA itself.
