Who isn't intrigued by a whodunit? Who can avoid pondering the fate of a person who disappeared without a trace? In the Mysterious Deaths series, Lucent Books examines several of the most provocative and enduring of these mysteries: the assassinations of presidents Lincoln and Kennedy, the unexplained deaths of Mozart and Marilyn Monroe, and the strange disappearances of Amelia Earhart and the nephews of Richard III. Every book begins its investigation where all good mysteries start—at the site of the victim's death. The authors go on to analyze the evidence and the suspects, and finally, they draw some conclusions and probe the still unanswered questions. Primary source quotes, expert testimony, and the most recent evidence allow readers to evaluate each case and come to their own conclusions.
