

JL:           75-1996- who leaked to writers for the FBI?   1/30/76

Jim White thinks that Sterling Green, retired from the AP within the past few years, may have handled some and be able to identify those who fed him.

There might, of course, be a question of his willingness, whether or not in those cases he was bound to confidence.

Jim is not certain but he thinks he remembers seeing Green's name on some of the stories.

Green is at 5337 MacArthur Blvd.

He is a very capable financial writer and may, since retiring from AP, gone to work again.

I am not sure this aspect of the suit is worth the time it could take.

I've had this for some time and didn't work my way down to it.

best,
