

Dear Jim,

3/2/83

Here is another short affidavit for 78-0322/0420. I plan another that will be a little longer but I don't know if I'll be able to get to it today. I'm in fairly constant pain and the doctor told me to listen to my body, not to do what it objects to. So I work a little, return to bed, work a little, etc. And when just sitting up is painful, I don't feel like sitting very much. I have more bloodtesting in the morning and then see the doctor.

Because I've not known how much I would be able to do and because you do have a deadline, I decided to do each as I could so at least that much would be done if I had to suspend.

The next one will include the New Orleans inventory that was withheld in this litigation. The fools disclosed it to Mark and it indicates the existence of other records. NO is careful to do no more than cover itself. It does not say what the other records are.

I don't think there will be time for any more, even if I feel like doing more, as now I certainly do not.

The next one will deal with non-searches and with how bright Blakey wasn't. He never did succeed in getting as much as I broke loose and he didn't even keep up with it. On the other hand, although they tried to limit me to what they decided to limit NSGA to, they didn't.

And, naturally enough, Phillips withholds in this case of Mark's what he did ~~not~~ disclose in my case. Not bad for him to be withholding in front of Green what is in the FBI's reading room for more than five years. Maybe she'll like that?

In fairness of Phillips, he tried - and got overruled on appeal. So, he's at least consistent in trying.

Hastily,
