

Dear Jim,

8/11/83

Your 8/4 letter to Schaitman reminds me that if you have not kept a list of such things it might be a good idea to have a place to accumulate such notes in the event of later need. You might want to include such things as the abstracts, of which even FBI counsel had had no prior knowledge of their existence.

Lil mentioned that your tax return is due not later than the 14th, in the event you'd forgotten that.

I've heard from Jimmie again. If I respond today I'll enclose a carbon. I'm tired, have been since about a half hour after my walking therapy, and may not.

I've gone through the records I got from the CIA and made copies of some. I'll be sending them, although you have them, with some comments about them.

Monthly visit to podiatrist today. He seemed satisfied. He has a new associate-one who was in a sixth grade class I'd been asked to speak to by their teacher, the son of the Olson the CIA managed to kill with a mixture of LSD and gross negligence.

Your long silence about the fairly numerous affidavits I've sent you and my tiredness has led me to think. I've decided that if you do not both file and make adequate use of them before you go on vacation I'll not be preparing any more affidavits and you can wind 0322/0420 up any way you want to, without me.

I'm aware of what you may regard as an error in one of them, the one about the JUNE records disclosed to Mark. Based on what they disclosed and their covering letter it is not an error, but you always think defensively and will not see it that way. They always manage not to write comprehensible or meaningful letters and add what they omit to their back carbons. You should have clobbered them about this long ago, so I do not expect you to. What I said is accurate, based on what they did provide and as I wrote you after you sent me the covering letter, it does not say otherwise. Moreover, there has been plenty of time for you to have asked me to change that page and you haven't.

Although I had planned to reprint WW I, I've about decided against it. However, if I can arrange for having copies made by offset I may do that and offer them for more. Didn't you have a friend who did that, Jackson?

Aside from my tiredness I have other problems, like storage space for them and making room by shifting my stock of the other books, which is beyond my physical capabilities now. I think I'd best conserve my energy and space for the King book, which I'll want to get to when I will not be interrupted by any FOIA needs.

Best,
