Dear Chief Curran:

An article in the current issue of "U. S. News & World Report" by Mr. Larry Krove of "The Dallas Morning News" proves to be most informative.

A few months ago I read an article by a graduated sports columnist in which he contended that T. V. coverage of sports was, in many instances, interfering with the normal course of the various sports T. V. covers. He stated that T. V. people are generally very "pushy," ignorant type people.

After reading Mr. Krove's article, I must conclude that T. V. newsmen, in general, are on a par with their sports colleagues.

I have read many articles by various well known political analysts. The general opinion of the article is that the citizens of Dallas are, as a rule, warm-hearted, good neighbor type folk. Although Dallas is a growing metropolis its citizens are not yet "sophisticated". The author hoped that Dallas would ~~never~~ become a sophisticated city.

The Police Dept. of Dallas as personified by policeman J. D. Tippity, has a great deal to be proud of.
