

Mother Not Disappointed in Son for His Action

Russia Rejects Fort Worth Man's Bid

Russia has rejected Fort Worth's Lee Henry Oswald. His mother says she is not disappointed in her son for his action.

But he indicated he will accept an invitation to live there freely as a resident alien.

His mother in the widow of a World War I combat veteran who died before Mrs. Oswald gave birth to Lee. His father, also named Lee, was an insurance man in Los Angeles.

Lee's mother said he is a graduate of Arlington Heights High, who joined the Marines when he was 17. When he was released from active duty two months ago he had served 18 months in the States.

His mother said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

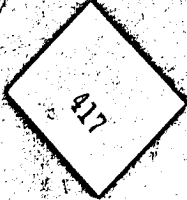

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

and asked for Saturday morning his mother and brother live here, strode into the American embassy, according to Star-Telegram wire service reports, slapped down his passport on the consular desk and said: "I have made up my mind. I'm through."

His mother is Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, a widow who lived at 2115 Bristol Rd. until about two months ago, a brother, R. L. Oswald, lives at 7215 Davenport. Oswald's decision, even his avowance in Russia, came as a surprise to his family here.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.

She said she was not disappointed in her son for his action. She said she would much rather read the sort of headlines that are appearing now than headlines of something like this.

She said she was always interested in history and more. When she was still in grammar school he ran to the end of the street to see the British Queen he said.