

Speech at the United Nations

by Fidel Castro

...the workers in the front of their labor, the right of peaceful and hospital attention, the right of youth experiential, and scientific education, the right of Negroes to the right of women to equal, social and political equality;
the right of intellectuals, artists, and scientists to fight, the right of workers to their full sovereignty; the right of peasants to their land, their possessions, their schools, their hospitals, the young and the old, the oppressed and exploited, defend their rights and their interests.

Members of the Revolutionary Government of Cuba. Thank you.

318

General Assembly Session
September 26, 1960