I am praying every day for your recovery and sincerely I hope you should be acquitted if it is far as I'm concerned, you should be thanked for holding that nerve. God remembers you under the stones and wanting to be there. I am just thankful to know that there are still enough people left in the hard hearted world of ours to really care when a terrible thing like that assassination takes place.

Hope this gives you a little to know that many people are on your side of the thing.

Much love always. Take care and try not to let them get you too depressed. Don't only imagine how you feel at the present.
