

AYNESWORTH related facts surrounding WILLIAM DAVID FERRIE that he had uncovered in his investigation to SUBJECT. FERRIE attempted to enter into the Priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church in 1946 and was rejected. His ties with the Church were never broken. FERRIE was reported to have been an impostor and that he had for several years posed as a doctor and was employed by Eastern Airlines until they discovered that he had never been thru medical school. FERRIE then posed as a lawyer for several years until he was disbarred by some objectionable attorneys.

FERRIE is reported to have become closely associated with JACK S. MARTIN, a private investigator, thru his Church activities and they became closely associated. Thru their early acquaintance, MARTIN was always subordinate to FERRIE and did what he was told to do. Both were interested in the Civil Air Patrol movement and FERRIE, being a pilot, found this a perfect organization to associate himself with young boys to satisfy his sexual desires. Due to the activities of these boys and FERRIE, he was dismissed from the Civil Air Patrol.

AYNESWORTH stated that his investigation disclosed that JACK S. MARTIN was very active in a Church brotherhood known as the APOSTOLIC ORDER OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH. Even though he had been in mental institutes in California and Louisiana, he attained the position of Bishop in this order. MARTIN is reported to have gotten FERRIE interested in the Order and saw that he was appointed a Priest. FERRIE did not appreciate the fact that MARTIN was a Bishop and He was only a Priest, so he attempted petty politics to try to reverse the position with MARTIN. In July, 1963 MARTIN attended a national meeting of the Order, and due to the pressures being applied to him by FERRIE, disclosed the morals of FERRIE to have him evicted from the Order.

When MARTIN learned of the events in Dallas on November 22, 1963 he knew that FERRIE had flown to some location in Texas on this date, so AYNESWORTH relates. JACK S. MARTIN took this opportunity to gain more vengeance on FERRIE by reporting to an assistant District Attorney of New Orleans by the name of Holman that FERRIE had flown to Dallas on this date, and may be connected with the assassination. AYNESWORTH disclosed that his investigation disclosed the fact that FERRIE returned to New Orleans on November 23 and on November 24, 1963 he left town, not knowing that anyone was looking for him. FERRIE is reported to have returned to New Orleans on November 25 and upon learning of his being wanted went to Holman and surrendered. FERRIE is reported to have had a witness to the fact that they had flown to Houston, Texas, got drunk and on this visit found themselves in Galveston before returning to New Orleans. This witness was ALVIN ROLAND BEAUBOEF. Other facts were
