

down in our hearts, or it is what we know "in the back of our heads" (to use a popular expression). Many times, when one fears that God might not have forgiven him of a sin, he has sufficient knowledge in his subconscious mind that God has forgiven him. So don't let Zoroastrian influence ~~to~~ ^{you} to think that Rubenstein could have consciously been a keeper of the law and subconsciously a breaker of ~~the~~ the law.

I don't need to know the specific things the 3 psychiatrists have to say about the recent examination of Rubenstein's brain. All I need to know is that men, like Rubenstein, are declared to be insane only by means of the modern concept of insanity, which ^{concept} is totally heretical, or repugnant to the word of God in the Bible, and that no insanity compels a person to kill someone. All of the criteria which are used by modern psychiatry are ~~heresies~~ heresies, and I can point out about
