for doing in blind devotion what I feel a million other Americans wanted to do. At the time I heard the news I said to "someone" "Thank God someone had the guts to do it" and although sober thought makes it seem less fitting now I still feel a sense of gratitude to you. To paraphrase Winston Churchill who said it about England when she was striking back at her enemies I feel that an allusion to this being your "finest hour" is also fitting.

Thank you Jack, and may God help you in my prayer.

Sincerely,

Henry Bous
