Dear Mr. Ruby:

This is just a note to wish you good luck in your upcoming trial, and to make a request which I hope you may comply with.

I'm a collector of historical documents and letters and would very much appreciate having a personal reply from you in your own handwriting. I know that you have received a great many letters in the past few days, and I could not expect that you could write to me at very great length, in this case. However, I hope you will write at least a few lines for me.

I've enclosed a stamped and self-addressed envelope for your convenience in replying.

I have heard that there is some chance that the well-known Jake Erlich may represent you in court. Is this true, or has that yet been decided?

I am not an attorney, and have little resources, but if there is any way in which I can be of help to you, please let me know.

I hope, in any event, that you will wish to reply to my letter, however briefly.

Again, allow me to wish you good luck.

Most cordially yours,

John A. Fischbach
