

Monday, 25 November
1963.

JK

321

Dear Mr. Ruby:

you don't know me,
and I doubt that you ever will in this world.

I was at church when I heard about your deed. I must say that I was only "mildly" shocked by the incident.
I rather expected Mr. Oswald to be killed during the transfer when I heard of the plan — to move him to the other jail.

No doubt, many other citizens felt, as you did, that Mr. Oswald should receive the same treatment as he handed out. I, myself, felt that he was certainly deserving of death.
I heard that he boasted of being a Communist. I forgot that he also had a soul. Had someone told him of the Love of God, perhaps he would have been a different person, and we would have been spared this tragedy.

20A-68