The Assassination of President Kennedy

An End or a Beginning?

On November 22, 1963, riding through the streets of a great American city justly boastful of thriving growth and wealth, the President of all the people of the United States appeared stimulated by the acclaim at a Fort Worth gathering, and by those who had cheered him along the way.

In Dallas, en route to address a large luncheon group awaiting his arrival, the President must have experienced some anxiety because of the incidents of hatred and violence which had accompanied an earlier visit of his appointed Ambassador to the United Nations, Adlai Stevenson. With maximum possible protection of an alert Secret Service, President John F. Kennedy, unlike the reigning heads of some other nations, exhibited that sense of freedom which is shared as natural right by Americans as he was transported in an open car exposed to public view and to the calculating eye of a hidden assassin.

One man, one gun, one bullet shattered the brain which had been dedicated to the solution of our nation's, and the world's, problems. The uncivilized act shocked all Americans into awareness of the over-riding importance of the President of the United States; an importance which, even in those who disagreed vigorously with his policies and beliefs, suddenly superceded all other feelings, all other considerations.

One man, one gun, one bullet overruled the decision of the majority of voters of this nation who had chosen John F. Kennedy to be Chief Executive of their country, to direct its destinies for four years.

The heavy weight of sorrow and personal loss, and of sympathy for the President's wife and family, for most people was accompanied by a sweeping disbelief that our nation's chosen leader and spokesman could be so swiftly, so unexpectedly, so wantonly destroyed as a vital human being.

In varying ways each of us sensed that his death was, in part, our's. There was some measure of reassurance in the essential decency and justice of most persons, for relatively few reacted with spontaneous rage or desire for vengeance against the assassin. Rather there was a querulous reaching out for understanding of the motivations leading to this abominable act of destruction by one human being against another.

It is hard to know when the emotions of mourning and shock and, perhaps a vaguely undefinable feeling of shared guilt, will drift into the background of experience. Certainly no one who knew the impact of the assassination, of the almost simultaneous shooting of Texas Governor John B. Connally, and of the tragically bizarre occurrences in the minutes and days which followed, will ever forget. And recorded history will remind those who follow us.

No murder occurs without cause, although irrational to others. Each killer is motivated by some force or combination of influences which leads to his act of destruction.

The life of assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was taken by another ruthless killing just two days after his arrest, thus limiting the possibilities for fullest possible understanding of the twisted motivations for committing his immeasurable crime. Certainly the efficiency and resources of the Federal Bureau of Investigation ultimately will make known more than is now available to understand the reasons why this man had appointed himself executioner of President Kennedy and of democratic decision.

But enough is now known of the crime and of the accused criminal to lend emphasis to unresolved problems in our community out of which arise the stimuli for so appalling an act. Lee Oswald, to the degree that we now know of his background and activities, was what many people dismiss as an "oddball" or "crackpot", if they give attention to him at all. In the lives of most of us we have contacts with persons whom, because of unrelenting hatred or abnormal pattern of conduct, we avoid as being in these categories. Such individuals exist in every community.

The heinous acts which occurred in Dallas on November 22, 1963, and in the days immediately thereafter, could have transpired in any American city.

Unfortunately, no large community is free of that lunatic-fringe which is endowed with intelligence, impelled by hate and capable of murder. Nor is any city free of persons who believe themselves beyond the law.

Our nation of peoples has been swept by the emotional impact of President Kennedy's tragic death. If it is to have meaning beyond temporary sympathy and shock, if from it shall be constructed a monument of greater wisdom, then the interment of his remains must stimulate widespread dedication to the solution of those problems which contributed to his death.

For the living, there is an obligation to search out those problems, and those solutions.

There is need to examine exhaustively the short life of Lee Oswald, to determine the influences which led to his abandonment of faith in our system of government and justice, in their stead his acceptance of the philosophy of Marxism, and the eventual conviction that fulfillment of his life goals required the taking of the lives of others.

There is need for evaluation of growing American cynicism towards the political processes and orderly government by law; to face squarely the implications of a popular wise-guy attitude which is titillated by "putting things over" in technical violation of the law. Among other alarming products of such attitudes has been tolerance of the growth of organized crime and racketeering into America's biggest business and one of its most influential forces in shaping the course and character of political government.

Citizens everywhere, community leaders and public officials must generate themselves, and stimulate in others, a demand for integrity in the law enforcement processes. It is the awareness for this need to which our Crime Commission gives impetus - but not enough.

Each murderer in the Dallas tragedy acted as jury, prosecutor, judge and executioner outside the law. And the histories of both accused killers indicate that they were conditioned to disrespect law and its orderly procedures:

Lee Harvey Oswald during 1954 and 1955 attended Beauregard Junior High School in New Orleans, where other students frequently were in conflict with police. He then resided with his mother in a dingy apartment at 126 Exchange Alley, a narrow street extending one block from the main business thoroughfare of Canal Street, to the Iberville Street boundary of the French Quarter.

Their substandard living quarters were above a pool hall, where Oswald is reported to have taken his one close schoolmate, a hangout for gamblers. The bleak street which he called home was occupied also by sordidly operated bars, including some in which aggressive homosexuals and prostitutes were frequenters and others the scene of operations for illegal bookies. This also was when New Orleans Police officers, as part of their corrupt practices, could readily be observed patronizing or on friendly terms with vice and gambling joints.

It is of special interest that Oswald was impressing his school teachers with outstanding performance in the study of civics. As he was being taught the theory of responsible government, in the same teen years he was surrounded by cynical evidences of its betrayal.

Leon Rubinstein, better known as merits and demerits of capital punishment as a penalty prescribed by society. As a self-governing people, do we thus create a culture in which killing is acceptable punishment for wrongdoing? Do we plant the seed of logic for independent action by the self-appointed judge and executioner, when taking of human life is considered responsibly-arrived-at decision in the criminal law? Especially with statistical studies failing to establish capital punishment as a deterrent to capital crimes, is the policy of destroying life, in the name of justice, a proper one for civilized society?

We amass national resources of money, skills, public opinion and manpower to compete with foreign and abhorrent ideologies. With these resources we also challenge and overcome the mysteries of outer space.

There is perhaps a greater and more important challenge presented in stark reality by the tragic recent events in Dallas; that we must dedicate more of our resources to the task of closing the gap between philosophy and fact in the rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" - to make equal justice under law prevail.

Many of the ingredients of this challenge are now discouraging or disillusioning to those who seek to make democracy work:

widespread demand for increased government services accompanied by clamor against the cost, the scramble to pluck fruits from the tree of democracy while evading responsibility for nourishing its roots;

corrupting pressures on government officials and agencies for special privileges;

lack of individual and group indignation in reaction to corrupt practices in government, business and organized labor;

spreading trend of court decisions to impose excessive restraints on police in dealing with serious crimes, as in the "exclusionary rule" which prohibits seizure of evidence of a crime if a warrant fails to anticipate such evidence will be found, or the Mallory rule which ignores the difficulties of investigation as it clamps a too-tight lid on confessions;

the growing tide of crime in the U.S., with inattention to the needs of law enforcement agencies, which almost everywhere are undermanned, under-equipped and underpaid;

the arrogant posture of organized crime and racketeering in the American scene, met with timid and inadequate legislation at the national level, largely ignored at state and local lawmaking levels;

the crime-deterrent value, and decency, of "speedy justice", too often lost in technical or unjustified postponements of trials;

Judges more concerned with partisan politics than with impartial justice;

unprofessional parole and pardon procedures which return unreformed criminals to destructive careers;

prisons unequipped to accomplish their assigned task;

communities unready to help ex-convicts find their way in useful society.

These and many more are gaps to be filled to advance law and order, and to stimulate "government of laws, not of men" as our way of life, bringing vital reality to the inscription on the courthouse facade.

On November 22nd our President, John F. Kennedy, and police officer J. D. Tippitt were both engaged in performance of their duties when fatally struck down by an assassin. The living, in the future performance of citizen and official duties, will determine whether national mourning is shortlived sentiment, or the beginning of dedication to correcting those conditions which mold the atmosphere of evaded responsibility in which these heinous crimes occurred.

diese Nacht, wobei ich!

Heute sind wir von Houston am Golf von Mexiko nach Dallas Texas gefahren. Dort bin ich im "El Comodoro" Hotel, wo auch das von Parkland Hospital entfernt, wo ein anderer Indikator Kennedy geboren ist.

Etwa hier habe ich mir oben die Stelle angesehen, wo das Wortfeld stattgefunden hat. Ist es nicht ein seltsamer Zufall das gerade an dieser Stelle die Stadt Dallas dabei war ein großer Kommunikationszentrum? Es wird mir eingeleuchtet, das diese Stadt, auf dem diese Dunkelheit gebaut wird, ist auch heute noch von Blumen und Kräutern, deren auch Gebetsstätten überst.
Eine Anzahl kleiner USA Flaggen steht über diesem Bild, so der Höhe dieser ganzen Aufzeichnung steht ein Stück des Sach der Stadt Berlin und darüber steht die kleine Flagge.
In Worte möchte ich von allem einige Punkte machen, die auch über Dallas und diese jüngeren Geschichte genau informieren zu können.

So, es ist spät - ich muss schlafen - morgen ist ja auch noch ein Tag! Gute Nacht!

La Habana,

Mr. Director del Diario de New York.
New York.
Estados Unidos de America.

Señor Director:

Tengo el gusto de hacerle la presente para informarle que el asesinato del Presidente John F. Kennedy fue pagado por el Sr. Pedro Charles, agente de Fidel Castro en México, el cual hubo de establecer amistad con el ex-Infante de Marina y tirador de escuadra Lee E. Oswald en México y se les veía juntos frecuentar varios clubs nocturnos. Al mencionado Pedro Charles le he entregado a Oswald la cantidad de siete mil dólares por adelantado; para los preparativos y después se le entregará diez mil dólares al completarse el trabajo, es decir que el crimen fue tasado en diez y siete mil dólares.

El Sr. Pedro Charles que utiliza otros nombres falsos así como Pasaporte Diplomático para entrar o salir de México y Estados Unidos actualmente se encuentra en la residencia del Embajador Cubano en México, según las últimas informaciones que obran en mi poder. Sepa usted primero que nadie, la verdad del asesinato del Presidente Kennedy ocurrido en Dallas.

To the Director of the "Diario de New York"
New York

Dear Sir:

It is my pleasure to write this letter to inform you that the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was paid for by Mr. Pedro Charles, Fidel Castro's agent in Mexico. This man became a close friend of former Marine and expert shooter Lee H. Oswald in Mexico. They were seen together frequenting various night clubs. The above-mentioned Mr. Pedro Charles had to deliver to Oswald $7000 as a down payment for the preparations. Later he was to deliver $10,000 upon completion of the work. In other words, the crime was agreed upon for $17,000.

Mr. Pedro Charles, who uses other fictitious names and a diplomatic passport to enter and leave Mexico and the United States, is at present in the residence of the Cuban Ambassador in Mexico, according to the latest information in my possession. I want you to know before anybody else the truth about the Dallas assassination of President Kennedy.

Señores:

Por la presente nos dirigimos a Usted para hacerle saber que el asesinato del Presidente de los Estados Unidos John F. Kennedy tiene relación con el Gobierno Revolucionario de Cuba. Hace aproximadamente unos dos meses, el presunto asesino del Presidente, Lee Harvey Oswald, se entrevistó en la ciudad de Miami con el señor Pedro Charles, agente de Fidel Castro en México, el cual hubo de entregarle al referido Lee H. Oswald la cantidad de siete mil dolares. Esta fuente es oficial, toda vez que una dama que acompañó a Pedro Charles en un Club Nocturno de Miami vio a ambos conferenciar juntos, y esta dama hubo de reconocerlo en las fotografías publicadas aquí en La Habana. Esa dama reside en la Habana y no se pueda revelar su nombre, pues su acompañante el tal Pedro Charles se encuentra actualmente en México en una misión del Gobierno de Castro para un intercambio cultural. Dicha dama tan pronto abandone el país, pues se encuentra en una grave crisis nerviosa, se trasladará a algún país de América Central clandestinamente y evitar que la policía de Castro la detenga, es todo lo que puedo informar por el momento y es la gran ver-

Dallas, Texas, U.S.A.

Germany, 1st Januari 1964.
EUROPE.

Concerns: Factory of Your Husband's in Germany.

Dear Malam,

No doubt, it will surprise You very much hearing of a Factory of Your deceased husband, but it is real true.

There is a lot of things You have not heard of, hence, we have taken the liberty to send You this letter. Please, realize the following sentences are of paramount importance, not only to You, but also to important personalities, so take good notice of them.

President Kennedy has been liquidated and Your husband has been murdered the same day, a few days later, Lee Oswald has been shot down by Ruby.
Have You never thought there must be a secret connection between Oswald and Ruby? Well, dear Madam, there has been indeed, and more, Your husband was also a member of the gang. Amazed at it? Madam believe us, we have all evidence here with us. The death of President Kennedy must be attributed to a fanatic political opponent of the President, a certain Governor of one of the States of the USA.

The Governor did not feel safe with regards to the Election of President next year, so that Kennedy should be disappeared. In order to achieve this result, this opponent sought contact with Oswald, of whom was known to be a very strong antipode of the American Intern Policy, and also with us.

After Oswald had succeeded in liquidating Pres. Kennedy, Your husband had the order to act as if he was going to arrest Oswald. Unfortunately, Oswald did not recognize Your husband for some reason, and so he shot him down.

from the said Governor. As agreed upon, the Governor should pay 75% in advance and the remainder by us self,

However, Your husband is no more to pay his part of the remainder ad.
35.000 dollars. Will You please complete the work of Your husband's?
Evidently, he was doing this for You and his children, beside, let him not gave his life for nothing.

Moreover, if the money should not be paid in time, the sellers of the Factory may get impatiently and spoil the whole thing.

Ofcourse, You do not have to remain share-holder if You do not want to, later You can sell Your share again. This is done only to prevent difficulties for the time being.

So dear Madam, do not be too self-conceited or suspicious, later everthing will be clear to You. It is urgent, so hurry, Madam, send 35.000 dollars then You and We are safe, do not wait too lang.

Go to Your Bank and send us a covered cheque of the said amount, or open a Bank Account with a Bank at Switzerland, without conditions On name of WOLFGANG AE 090822, message of confirmation may be sent to Mr. Charles Rozenblad, Admiralengracht 142.L, Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

Please realize, Madam, if You refuse to cooperate, You will dig Your own grave, besides, You have nothing to loose.
It is worth finishing the job, Your husband has started for You and children, so pick up the, were Your husband had had to drop it.

In conclusion
