

Minsk,
Oct 8, 1962.

Dear G. Lech,

I've got all your letters and none of the packages.

I went over Gigen's the other day. They got some books and magazines from you.

It's rather dull without you here.

Allmost nobody to speak to. Some week ago I was to a meetig with English students.
They were peace marchers. They were a few for boys only so anyone was immediately captured by a dozen of chattering Russian girls. I managed to get close to some of the Britishers and spoke to them. They said
I had a very good accent (English accent).

It's very nice you can subscribe Russian news paper in there so I need not read them
to you.

I saw Nina. She told me she got a package from your wife and sent her best regards to her. I asked her to write.

1-1-5

Do you remember that tall boy
fair-haired girl from the Conservatives?
We met at the 'League Organ' performance with her at Hapxog. I go on seeing her and she asked me about you. I said you were O.K. He said you were a very charming boy. He liked you. (Don't say that to your wife).

Well, I think I finish this letter now.

I set for French. Is it possible to get a French text book for English speaking people there? I'd like to have one.

I think, I'll send a book to you to see what happens.

My best wishes to Marina.

Your friend, Erik.

To Marina:

У нас сейчас необходимо сделать
очень много работы.

Мне необходимо много заниматься.
Я думаю у тебя и у меня. С кем-то мы можем
временно справиться пока (она сама занимается).
У меня будет помощник медсестры. Кто-то из нас
может быть? Было бы хорошо. Спасибо тебе.
