Railroads Reject Union Request To Renew Bargaining

SPROTESTERS for the upstate turned down a renewed proposal by leaders of the five operating brotherhoods for another try at negotiations, and looked longingly to March 26, the day when legal restrictions on their plan for mass firing would be lifted. It is on that date that the federal injunction blocking the plan of the carriers to fire 44,000 workers expired. A Supreme Court ruling had rejected the appeal of the unions against the mass dismissal plan that had last year been recommended by a Presidential commission.

both sides to break talks both, the President will undoubtedly break the 90-day out-of-of of the Railway Labor Act, which would both hold up a strike and the firing. That can bring a showdown in the late spring or early summer.

War Hogs Fight At TFX Plane Profit Trough

By MIKE DAVIDOW

TWO OF THE U.S. GIANTS in the "military-industrial complex" are shoving it out for one of the most lucrative contracts of the cold war. That is the story behind the controversy in Washington over the recent contract awarded General Dynamics for the TFX, a new fighter plane able to carry nuclear weapons, fly 1,700 miles an hour and reach anywhere in the world in one day.

The contract was awarded to General Dynamics, which makes the F-106 fighter, and Boeing Aircraft which produces the Minuteman missile. The price is a plane that will cost the taxpayer six billion to seven billion dollars.

General Dynamics got the contract, more easily than the other TFX bidders, because of its close ties to the Pentagon. It is the only one of the three bidders that has a plant in the Washington area.
