Striking New York Printers Break Publishers' Front as Post Resumes Publication

By Jack Katz
 NEW YORK, March 11. The 100,000 members of New York City's printing industry are on strike today, having an 11th day out since they voted to walk out on March 4. The union is demanding a 10 percent wage increase and a 40-hour work week. The American Printing House for the Blind is also on strike.

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 1 James Travis, a 20-year-old field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, was gunned last night by three white men and is in a hospital in critical condition.

Travis is in the University Hospital in Jackson with a shoulder wound and a flattened bullet lodged near his spine at the base of his neck.
