NBC Finds 'Bertrand,' Says He Is Not Shaw A3

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. said tonight it had located Clay (or Clem) Bertrand and he is not Clay Shaw as District Attorney Jim Garrison claims.

Garrison says Shaw and Bertrand are the same man and that he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to assassinate President Kennedy. Shaw, a New Orleans businessman, is awaiting trial.

Tonight NBC telecast "The JFK Conspiracy: The Case of Jim Garrison" — based on a four-month investigation of Garrison's charges.

'Not Clay Shaw'

"Clay or Clem Bertrand does exist," narrator Frank McGee said. "And NBC reporter has seen him. Clem Bertrand is not his real name. It is a pseudonym used by a homosexual in New Orleans. For his own protection we will not disclose the real name of the man known as Clem Bertrand. His real name has been given to the Department of Justice. He is not Clay Shaw."

In New Orleans, Garrison said: "All of the screaming and hollering now being heard is evidence that we have caught a very large fish. It is obvious that there are elements in Washington, D.C., which are desperate because we are in the process of uncovering their hoax.

"The National Broadcasting Co.'s project has been directed by a former investigator for the Federal Government, Mr. Walter Sheridan. In the end it will fail, as all efforts to conceal the truth by the use of power inevitably must fail."

Narcotics Addict

One of Garrison's witnesses was Vernon Bundy, 29, a narcotics addict. NBC said he was in a prison hospital when he told another inmate he was testifying for Garrison "because this is the only way I can get cut loose."

McGee said NBC also learned that Bundy underwent a lie detector test in advance of his testimony that indicated his story was not true, but that Garrison made use of it anyway to get Shaw held for trial.

Another key witness for Garrison was Perry Raymond Russo, 26, an insurance salesman. NBC quoted an interviewer as saying that Russo, under hypnosis, volunteered no information about Shaw and the purported assassination plot, until he was subjected to "a series of leading questions."

[Fred Leemans, who ran a New Orleans Turkish bath, told NBC that Garrison's investigators offered to help him get $2500 he needed to lease a building for a nightclub if he could remember that Clay Shaw used the name Clay Bertrand and was accompanied to the Turkish bath by someone named Lee, United Press International reported. Leemans was the fourth person to claim similar offers from Garrison's investigators.]
