The first thing I noticed when I got out of the plane was the heat. It was a real surprise. I had heard that it was hot, but I didn't realize
it would be so
hot. The sun was burning, and the ground was scorching. I wasn't used to this kind of heat. It was a real shock.
I had to get used to it.
The heat was a real problem.
I had to wear
light clothes.
I had to drink
a lot of water.
I had to stay in the shade.
I had to avoid the sun. It was a real challenge.
I had to learn
to live with it.
The heat was a real part of the experience.
I had to accept
it. I had to learn to love
it. It was a real lesson.
I had to learn
to live with the heat. It was a real challenge.
I had to learn
to live with the heat. It was a real lesson.
