

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
Washington, D. C. 20260

June 12, 1964

██████████ was born ██████████ at ██████████. He presently resides at ██████████, a rooming house which caters to transients and various persons with little or no incomes. ██████████ was interviewed at Raleigh on June 4, 1964. ██████████ advised he retired from the Merchant Marine in ██████████ and has a card from the National Maritime Union of America, AFL-CIO, 346 W. 17th Street, New York 11, N. Y., dated March 23, 1959, Book No. ██████████. He stated he was at Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, N. Y., for 2-3 years after his retirement, and then lived at Morehead City, N. C., for 2-3 years. He states he came to Raleigh, N. C., about 8 months ago, and rented P. O. Box ██████████ at Morgan Street Station of the Raleigh Post Office on October 3, 1963. He has a sister, ██████████, who receives mail at Box ██████████.

██████████ walks with two canes as a result of a broken leg and ankle while in the Merchant Marine. He is described as a wild-looking person, dirty hair, white stubby beard, mouth stained with tobacco juice, and all in all presents ██████████, and he has a large color television set in the midst of all the debris and filth. A rifle, apparently .22 caliber, was in a dark area, and a box of shells, of a different caliber, was on a table near a window. ██████████ says that he has shot at people who come by at night in their cars blowing horns and racing their motors.

██████████ could give no details concerning the loyalty of any post office employees, but stated that when he visited the post office, small groups of employees would gather and start talking, and although he could not hear them, he felt that they might be talking about him. He also mentioned that others would turn their backs and whistle "Dixie" and other "Rebel" tunes at times when he visited the post office. At the beginning of the interview, he asked if the inspector believed in the Constitution of the United States, and if he had been "Rebelized."

██████████ main complaint is that practically everyone in Raleigh, N. C., is a subversive. The complainant says there are a few good Americans, as he labels himself. ██████████ stated that people around business places and on the streets talk about public accommodations law and that they say the officers in the armed services would not give and follow orders concerning civil rights, race riots, etc. ██████████ stated he had never seen such a place as Raleigh for people to talk about "Queers." ██████████ stated that "foreign," meaning out of state automobiles, come by Morgan Street every night until about 1 a.m., and he thinks they are either "queers" or "subversives." ██████████ advised he has heard bad talk and threats against former President Kennedy, President Johnson, and candidates in the North Carolina Governor's race. ██████████ furnished a typewritten sheet concerning some of these matters (copy attached).
