Final Juror; Extras Sought In Shaw Trial

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. today pressed efforts to select a final juror and two alternates in the 10-day-old trial of Clay L. Shaw.

Shaw, 55, is on trial on charges of conspiring to kill President John F. Kennedy. Eleven jurors have been sworn in during the first nine days.

A shortage of prospective jurors slowed yesterday's proceedings. Judge Haggerty has used up the jury panels of all eight sections of Criminal District Court.

"IT ALREADY IS a record for the city of New Orleans. No case in this city has ever interviewed so many prospective jurors," the judge said.

Altogether, 687 prospective jurors have been interviewed. Judge Haggerty sent process servers hustling about the city last night to drum up 150 more prospects, due in court today.

As in previous days, the main problem yesterday was that the prospective jurors already had a fixed opinion in the case, or else their employers would not continue their pay. Jurors draw no pay from the city.

OTHERS SAID they would suffer "undue concern" if separated from their families for several weeks. The jury will be sequestered during the trial.

Defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond yesterday exhausted his peremptory challenges, by which a juror may be rejected without giving a reason. Each side started out with 12. Chief prosecutor James L. Alcock has one left.

Each side will get two more peremptory challenges when they begin selecting the two alternate jurors.

CRIMINAL SHERIFF Louis A. Heyd estimated yesterday that lodging, meals and miscellaneous expenses for the jury may cost the city as much as $15,000 a month, or $250 a week per juror.

Major expenses will be for rooms and meals. Jurors are being quartered at the Downtowner Motor Inn.

In theory, the city pays all of a juror's living expenses for the duration of the trial, including food, razor blades, haircuts, newspapers and shoe shines.

One juror already sworn in asked Judge Haggerty yesterday if he could exercise in the police gym. The judge refused, but said the city would rent him an exercise machine if he desires.

SHERIFF HEYD'S office is allotted about $50,000 a year for jury fees and expenses. Heyd said this case will go well over that figure, and he will forward the bills to City Hall, where money is short anyway.

State law provides that jurors should be paid, but New Orleans is so hard-pressed for money the city has been unable to do so.

Prospective jurors who have spent long hours in Judge Haggerty's courtroom got one break yesterday. Traffic Judge Oliver S. Delery appeared to say that those who received traffic tickets won't have to pay them.

TICKETS PLACED on the cars of prospective jurors in the Shaw case will be not prosessed, Judge Delery said.

In another aspect of the Shaw case, Assistant District Attorney Norma V. Bertel Jr. is in Washington, D.C., to file new pleadings in District Attorney Jim Garrison's effort to subpoena autopsy records on Kennedy.

Federal Judge Charles E. Halleck Jr. of General Sessions Court in Washington gave Garrison until today to produce evidence that the records are material to the Shaw trial.

GARRISON CONTENDS the autopsy report will support his claim that Kennedy was shot from more than one direction in Dallas on Nov. 1963. The Warren Commission investigating the assassination concluded Lee Harvey Oswald fired all the shots from the rear of the president.

The autopsy records are sealed in the National Archives until 1971 at the request of the Kennedy family.
