The Canadian study site is located at the bottom of the valley, about 10 km from the nearest town. The area is characterized by a mix of agricultural land and forested areas.
The soil is relatively poor, with low organic matter content. The climate is temperate, with moderate rainfall and temperatures.
The population is primarily rural, with most people working in agriculture or forestry. There is a small town nearby, but it is not very large.

bars in the 10 to 30 minutes from the factory districts have become the most popular. Zedler Standard is probably the best off-shoot in the factory districts, and is located on the corner of 10th and 1st.
The other bars are mostly located on 10th Street between 1st and 2nd.
There are also some on 11th Street between 1st and 2nd.

Characteristics of sand grain beds are often found in association with such horizons of bedrock as those of the Cretaceous or Tertiary. Such sand grains are derived from the weathering of bedrock and are deposited in the stream channels and in the deltaic areas. They are often associated with the alluvium of the streams and are derived from the weathering of bedrock and are deposited in the stream channels and in the deltaic areas.
