ON THE POLICE BEAT

'Eye' Was Alert; Suspect Nabbed

By JACK DEMPSEY

Leave it to William "Bill" Gurvich, veteran private eye, to be, as they say in the police vernacular, "where the action is!"

Gurvich, who heads a detective agency, was in Baton Rouge last week for the annual Louisiana Peace Officers Association convention, and nabbed a suspect in a theft case.

He aided Baton Rouge officers in arresting a 46-year-old woman who was subsequently booked for theft of antiques from Nell Fetzer's Interiors, 342 Lafayette, in the state capital.

JACK DEMPSEY

Gurvich said he became suspicious of the woman when he first saw her in a drug store shortly before the report of the theft became known.

He noticed that the woman appeared quite nervous and he got the feeling she was "casing the place."

After he left the store he went for a ride with Lafourche Parish Sheriff Eddie Ste. Marie and Baton Rouge police officers I. D. Andrepont and Edward Pierce.

Then they received the description of a woman wanted for the antique theft, and Gurvich realized the description fit the woman he had seen in the drug store a short while earlier.

Her arrest quickly followed. The arresting officers found two of the antiques allegedly stolen in the woman's purse—a miniature owl and a miniature set of dice.
