

Dear Jim,

4/15/85

Once again you've not kept your word and once again it means problems for me. I'd not be surprised if you didn't forget it as soon as you promised.

Several months ago I suggested filing for some open-and-shut things, two with a third as possible depending on your judgement of it at the time of filing, and you not only liked the idea and laughed but assured me several times that nothing would keep you from it. Later we discussed this once by phone and you were still not certain about the third thing, Oswald-Mexico.

The other two are Nosenko and the Dallas police broadcasts, both firmly fixed in writing both ways, of which you have copies. Both long overdue.

Not until after getting your assurances did I write Huff the letter I outlined to you and you liked. If he did not comply by my birthday, April 8, I'd file suit, including against him for failing to perform official duties.

From the time he got my letter to now I've not received anything from him, not even what he said had been located months and months ago.

So, I have no choice but to file myself, and I think I will in Baltimore. I'd like you please to tell me what I need to know, what the filing fees are, what copies I have to send to the clerk, etc. I presume one to the USA there.

I've still heard nothing from Lynch. He promised to send me what the appeals court sent him instead of me but didn't and then didn't when I reminded him by mail and he's not responded in any way to the several letters that were not merely to inform him but asked questions, I think questions the lawyer ought anticipate are in the client's mind in any event.

I do not remember as much fear on the part of lawyers in even the McCarthy era. It bodes ill for the lawyers as well as for their clients and causes and it does the work of reaction for reaction.

You've also forgotten to send the copies of the records we discussed and you had with you when Dave was here. Beloti was only some of them.

Best,

