Nizer for the Warren Report Provided The Warren commission report on the Kennedy assassination will soon get a self-appointed defense attorney. Lawyer and best-selling author Louis Nizer is negotiating with the TV networks to defend the commission's findings, possibly in face-to-face encounters with such report critics as Mark Lane. Nizer claims the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country's integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country's integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country's integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country's integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country's integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country is integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country is integrity." Proceedings to the controversy surrounding the report has become a "libelous wave against our country is integrity."