The Assassination of John F. Kennedy: A Database of the Warren Commission's Witnesses

The purpose of this document is to provide a database of witnesses who provided information to the Warren Commission, either by appearing before the Commission or participating in a deposition proceeding with one or more of the Commission's assistant counsels.

This project was undertaken to determine the sequence of witness appearances during the course of the Commission's existence. The printed public record, represented by the Warren Report and its accompanying 26 volumes of Hearings and Testimony, does not provide that information. Accordingly, there has been, as part of the public record, scant means to determine the manner and flow of testimony acquired by the Commission through its witness proceedings. This database begins to correct that deficiency.

The reader should consider the following:

* Not all witnesses appeared before the Commission. By the Commission's account, 552 individuals provided information: ¹

- 94 individuals provided sworn, but un-cross-examined testimony, before the Commission. ²
- 395 individuals provided sworn, but un-cross-examined, testimony through a deposition proceeding conducted by one, or more, of the Commission's assistant counsels.
- 61 individuals provided sworn affidavits to the Commission.
- 2 individuals provided statements to the Commission.

* This database represents only individuals appearing before the Commission or its attorneys. Those providing affidavits or statements are not included.

² The reader should consider that not once did all seven members of the Warren Commission sit together to hear the testimony of any one witness. Had the Commission been a jury in an American court this factor alone would have resulted in a mistrial.

* All times have been converted to Eastern Standard Time for the purposes of uniformity across the database. Accordingly, there are a few instances of an individual being deposed, for example, in Dallas at 11:30 pm Central Standard Time, but because of the time shift to Eastern Standard Time the date shifts forward one day. This is not considered significant as the underlying purpose of this project was to provide, insofar as possible, a sequential witness listing.

* The times were not recorded for all individuals in the printed public record. This information will be inserted, at a later date and to the extent possible, from information derived from the Commission's Key Persons files. Where the time was not recorded, a blank space appears where the time would be expected. There are 43 occurrences of this type in the database, with 29 of those instances representing witnesses from New Orleans.³

* The total number of witness events incorporated within the database exceeds the number of witnesses which appeared before the Commission. This occurred because some witnesses, e.g., Marina Oswald, appeared more than one time before the Commission or participated in both, an appearance before the Commission, and a deposition proceeding with a Commission counsel. Accordingly, to develop the most accurate picture of the Commission's procedures, each appearance, including those separated by evident mealbreaks, was treated as an individual event. This accounts for there being more events than witnesses.

* In instances of witnesses appearing before the Commission itself, most often in Washington, only the Commissioners present are identified, not the attorney conducting the session. Likewise, where only an attorney is listed the proceeding was a deposition procedure not attended by any Commissioner.

The database is segmented into two major groups. The first group, Annex A, is a chronological listing of witnesses in order of testimony. The second group, Annex B, is grouped chronologically by Commissioners or attorneys. Both components contain 600 separate witness events.

Extending the two major groups, the database is exploited by reducing the major categories into more focused and restricted classes of interest. The reduced data sets are:
