Sylvia dear-

I promised to let you know the moment the Law Review arrived. It came yesterday (not exactly "the moment", is it!) and was post marked Sept. 7th !! (First Class with all the right postage, do boot) impossible to fathom the mystery but at least it came! I was up until 3 A.M. reading it and all I can say is it made me so damned angry, I couldn't fall asleep! These gentlemanly, critical taps on the wrist for such obvious chicanery is a continuing enigma to me.

These men appear to have at least perused the Hearings, and how they can emerge from that ex-posure and not fear the Government's position to threats is utterly beyond me! (How can we hope for something more responsible from the Dwight Macdonalds if this is the result of what drained legal minds conclude?)

Anyway, my most appreciative thanks for sending it. It's interesting, if not exemplary! The hotel in N.Y. is now set - the Sherry-Netherland. I'm eagerly anticipating the week (right, I'm sure). Any news from Fred Cook? Hope he can make contact with us. Also, wonder if the Schniers (who wrote invitation to us request on the Rosenberg horror) would be interested! See you soon. Fondly, Maggie
