Mrs. ED MILEY, 6421 Highgate, Dallas, advised that during April or May, 1963, she was working in her husband's photography shop, Ed Miley's Photography, 1416 Commerce Street, Dallas, Texas, at which time an individual whom she believes to have been LEE HARVEY OSWALD came into the office to apply for a job. Mrs. MILEY did not recall OSWALD until approximately two weeks ago when, through reading the Saturday Evening Post magazine, she learned that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had previously worked for Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall Company, 522 Browder, Dallas, Texas. She also has observed pictures of OSWALD in the press and she is sure as a result of her observations, that it was OSWALD who came to ED MILEY's office to apply for a job.

Mrs. MILEY stated that she could not be definite about the date of OSWALD's appearance at the office, however, she indicated she would review her husband's appointment book and determine therefrom the date upon which he had appeared. Her husband was out of the office on the date OSWALD came. The following day, OSWALD telephoned Mrs. MILEY and asked why he had not been called by Mrs. MILEY's husband relative to his application for employment. OSWALD was quite angry during this telephone conversation and asked Mrs. MILEY if she had his name and telephone number, and asked her to read his name and telephone number to him to prove that she had retained it.

On the occasion of his visit at the office which was approximately 2:00 or 3:00 P.M., Mrs. MILEY had asked OSWALD his experience in photography and he said he had been working in the Photographic Department of Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall and had been laid off because business was slow. Mrs. MILEY thought that this was odd because the MILEY business had been very good, and she was of the belief that it was the time of year when the photography business was good. OSWALD also told Mrs. MILEY he had worked since January for Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall. OSWALD also indicated he had prior military service in the Marine Corps. Mrs. MILEY recalls that OSWALD waited in the ED MILEY office for the return of ED MILEY and during his waiting, he appeared to be quiet and polite. Mrs. MILEY finally told him that she would take his name and telephone number and advise her husband upon his return. She jotted OSWALD's name and telephone number on a note pad and he left. The following morning when OSWALD telephoned, she tore the slip of paper that she had written his name and telephone number on from the pad, and placed it on a spindle. This slip of paper sometime later was thrown out or otherwise destroyed.

Mrs. MILEY stated that she does not know how this applicant for a job was referred to her, unless it was through the Texas Employment Commission with whom Ed Miley Photography had registered for a photographer.

Mrs. MILEY recalled that this individual when he called at the office was dressed in light-colored sport clothes. During the conversation on the telephone the following day, she noted the sound of children's voices in the background. She could not recall the telephone number that this individual had left, however, she does recall that the telephone number had the prefix "BL". Mrs. MILEY could not recall whether this individual had given any background information as to being married or place of birth, and she had no application executed by him.

On December 31, 1963, Mrs. ED MILEY was recontacted at which time she advised that she had reviewed her husband's appointment book, and as a result thereof, she was unable to definitely state what date it was that OSWALD had come in. She was of the belief that it could have been April 10, April 24 or May 14, 1963 that this individual had come to her husband's office, because on those particular dates her husband was away on assignments.
