

8-1-77
NY Post

Baden invite shocked docs

DR. Baden shocked a group of doctors recently by inviting Screw publisher Al Goldstein to address a forensic medicine conference.

A doctor who attended the event at New York University Medical Center told The Post that the medical men in the audience "raised hell" about the Goldstein lecture.

"He got up and he started to make statements of how big he was and his sexual prowess. It was offensive and inappropriate of Baden to ask him there," said the doctor, who asked not to be identified.

Reached at a health resort in Durham, N.C., Goldstein said he had been flattered by the invitation.

"I am known to be bizarre sometimes," he said, "but I was very aware of Mike's position and I didn't want to be strange.

"So I dressed like my own lawyer, and tried to be serious.

"I was invited because I dropped into Mike's office

AL GOLDSTEIN
Guest speaker.

after I'd been on a five-month diet program and had lost 100 pounds. I used to be 300. He asked me to speak and I said yes.

"I kidded around a lot in the speech, and I could have said those things," he added.