WASHINGTON, May 15 — Three other persons were injured by the bullets aimed at Gov. George C. Wallace today. The victims included Governor Wallace's long-time personal security officer, a United States Secret Service agent assigned to protect the Alabama Governor and a young woman serving as a volunteer "Wallace girl" during the Maryland primary campaign.

The personal bodyguard was identified as Capt. E. C. Dothard of the Alabama State Highway Patrol. He was said to have been shot in the chest and was reported in "fair to satisfactory condition."

Thomas S. Smith, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, identified the Secret Service agent as Nicholas Zorvas. He said that Mr. Zorvas had been shot in the throat and was "evidently in serious condition."

However, while Mr. Zorvas was undergoing an operation to remove the bullet, which had lodged in his jaw, Dr. Ronald F. Wilkinson, general surgeon at Leland Hospital, reported that "he is expected to be O.K."

The young campaign worker was said to be Mrs. Dora Thompson of Hyattsville, Md., not far from the shopping center where today's shooting took place.

Policemen in Hyattsville said that she had been treated for a wound in the knee and then released. "She is just fine," a spokesman for police headquarters said.

Captain Dothard was said by Wallace campaign headquarters to have served as the Governor's personal security officer for many years. He was described as being married and in his mid-40's and was a familiar figure on all Wallace campaign trips.

Captain Dothard was described as being closer to Governor Wallace than any other member of the campaign entourage. Reporters who traveled with the Wallace party described the police captain as "the most popular cop" on the campaign trail and said he had a laconic, droll wit.

Mr. Zorvas was said to be a young, well-dressed agent based in Atlanta. He was second in command of the security detail assigned to protect Governor Wallace. Along with the chief of the detail, James Kelly, he was responsible for administering all security techniques for the Wallace campaign as well as for accompanying the candidate personally at all times.
