Dear Mr. Rhoads,

First I must apologize for addressing you without your first name or initials, and for my abrupt departure yesterday. I intended to telephone you before leaving, but when we finished the viewing of the slides I found that there was just sufficient time to catch the five o'clock plane to New York.

The main purpose of this letter is to express to you, and also to Mr. Johnson and the projectionist whose name I believe is Mr. Swanson, my thanks for the courtesy and helpfulness which was extended to me. I truly appreciate the facilities which were made available and the opportunity to view material which I find very helpful to my research.

Your willingness to keep me informed of further material to be made available later in the year is also much appreciated. With thanks,

Yours sincerely,

Sylvia Meagher
