

1/28/69

Arnold —

If there is a greater hypocrite, liar and cheat on the face of the earth than you, Sir, I cannot imagine who he can be. Kindly make immediate arrangements with the post office to have your mail forwarded elsewhere than to me; to have all TMO material and your cartons of books removed from my premises at once; and to get someone else to act as your shipping clerk and typist. It appears to me that you can easily afford to hire the needed services.

If you ever dare to phone me, I will hang up on you at once. If you write to me, I will destroy the letter unopened.

It is certainly a pity that Lord Russell did not meet your high standards of financial probity, and that Maggie Field was so offensive as to offer you a loan of $1,500.

I only wish I had known, when I gave you $4000 out of my total savings of $12000 in July 1967, that your cash assets were considerably greater than mine.

If you consider your "personal savings" to be completely divorced from TMO's finances, you should at least give your victims the opportunity to make the same choice with respect to their savings.

I don't imagine that a man of your self-proclaimed monumental scruples will now be pompulous enough to return the money extorted and tricked from me in the secure knowledge of my private - or to return Maggie Field's "contribution."

No wonder you sleep so little. How does a man of your depravity ever sleep at all? Talk about defrauding widows and orphans — a old ladies of 79 who can subscribe to only one periodical and have the bad luck to choose TMO!

What a pity that you didn't cajole me into willing everything to TMO, and then kill me. It would have been a far better fate than living, as I will from this moment onward,
with the knowledge that the one person in whom I still believed and trusted is more debased and corrupt than a hundred Jamison
and Warrens, and a thousand times
more hypocritical.

Your "heartbreak" at leaving bills unpaid!! Your "resolution" to continue to be as "unselfish" and "honorable"
and to "work for humanity" as before!!

This story will be known to everyone who knows you or TMO, you may be sure.