Dear Jim,

My warm thanks for your courtesy, and Professor Krone's, in sending me the manuscript of his critical bibliography. I am overcome by his close and generous attention to my work and of course that may color my view. However, in as much objectivity as I can muster, I can only say that it seems a monumental study, a very valuable reference work, and that it shows a really astonishing command of the evidence in all its intricacy and scope. I was especially gratified by his critique of Belin's article, and happily amused by his tart commentary on Hartegs, Ford, and Sparrow, among others. Inevitably, I do differ with his view of some of the critics and would, for example, give much higher marks to Leo Sauvage's book. But generally I find myself in agreement with his assessment of the literature on the assassination. In fact, it is often instructive, since it clarifies for me why I did not think well of particular works, where I had not analyzed the reasons for myself.

As I do not have Professor Krone's full name or his address, perhaps you will wish to send him a copy of this letter (I enclose a carbon).

No, the urologist-apologist article has not yet appeared in the Texas Observer. I sent an inquiry about that a few weeks ago but have not received any reply. Since you did not receive the Veritas circular, I am enclosing my copy for your information. Please return it before too long for my archives.

Many thanks.

Yours sincerely,
