

(To: Bob Smith, CTIA Washington)

16 April 1971

Dear Bob,

Since you were good enough to "declassify" your discovery about the Walker bullet ("steel jacketed"), I did mention it to a number of the critics and especially to Dick Bernabei, who is highly knowledgeable about weapons, ammunition, and ballistics generally. Dick teaches in the Department of Classics, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario (in case you should wish to correspond with him).

I had received from Harold Weisberg a copy of his letter to you in which he took a very cautious view of your discovery. Bernabei, however, shares my own excitement about it, as you will see from the enclosed excerpt from a letter I just received from him.

I am writing Bernabei to tell him that I have sent you a copy of his comments on the Walker bullet, and summarizing for his information your description of CE 573 (from your Memorandum of 31 March 1971). Probably the two of you will wish to correspond directly, though I hope that you will still keep me in the picture.

Best regards,

Sincerely yours,
