

(1958?)

I'll put ten on
Krishna Menon
When he takes on
Angla - Saxons

In debate:

Sir Alan burns
And Gratton bellows—
He cut these fellows
Into ribbons,
Then he turned to
Brigidier Gibbons
Who, like the learned
Attorney-General,
Ducked too late
And strictly ephemeral
His unbowed pate—
Cut to shreds
He joins the ranks
Of other bloodied heads.

And this is thanks
To the skill forensic,
Tongue propensic,
Wit destructive,
Charm seductive,
Verbal dexterity,
Eubsome temerity,
Endless sagacity,
Amazing capacity
Of the Indian Delegate—
Plenipotentiary,
Extrapersensory
(And a bit hypotensory?)

Let all lavish praises again on
The incomparable "ship", Mr. Menon.
