

29 October 1966

Mr. Edward Jay Epstein
Famous, Rich, Successful, Admired, Nouveau-Inner-Circle, Ivy League Author
and Celebrity of Two Continents
295 Harvard Street
Cambridge, Mass.

Dear Ed,

I introduce myself anew, remember me, random indexer and sometime colleague? But only for the limited purpose of retrieving my property--item, one book, "Who Killed Kennedy?" by Thomas Buchanan, which will lend such comfort and warmth to my old age. And, to make it as simple and easy as possible for you, I am enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope. You need only pop in the book, turn down the hatch, and anchors aweigh!

I close with my compliments and assurances that I will continue to follow your career with unceasing interest, gratification, and pleasure, from afar, of course, since I have a fear of great heights. But nonetheless, with 'umble affection.

Yours, aye,

S. Meagher