Dear Sylvia:

My mail has been so "messed up" here lately that I may have failed to get a letter from you... so I am writing again. I get mail for other people now and then and last week I knew that I was supposed to get two pieces of mail that I never have received.

I am enclosing a Xerox (poor one) copy of an editorial in yesterday morning's Dallas Morning News. Sue Fitch is my "best friend" although we do not agree on the events of November 22, 1963. Sue is quite certain that a Communist lurks under every rosebush, etc.

I just realized that you may not have received my last letter. I sent you two small cards from my card file index. They were not important, just examples of my cards.

Penn Jones was up to see us last night. I told him that you are planning to visit Dallas during August and he was very pleased at the prospect of seeing you again. (Incidentally, Penn and I do not always agree on things either.)

We brought a cat into the house the other day to try to get Mike, my dog, accustomed to cats... He sniffed around and was very curious but the poor cat was ready to kill him and I fear could have if he had not been "contained"... We then put Mike in the back yard and I opened a can of Breast 'O Chicken Tuna for the cat to reward him for his ordeal. Now the cat wants to live on my front porch and Mike seems to know he is out there... I've really started something...

As I told you before, there will be a room for you at my house if you can stand it. And my feelings will not be hurt in the least if you take one look and refuse to accept the accommodations.

Eagerly awaiting August,

Sincerely,

Mary
