

10 pm, 8 September 1970

Dear Mary,

I was glad to have both your letters of the 3rd and 4th in my mailbox tonight. I hope that you had a really good weekend with Harold.

Please don't take any trouble, and don't let Arch bother, about CD 326. I had a notation about this document in the notes I brought back from your kitchen, that it had to do with Connally's trajectory, but it is nothing I desperately need and would not justify placing a burden on you or Arch. (Please give him my warm regards and renewed thanks for his patience and help and for his family's hospitality to me--somehow I managed to leave without his address.)

Yes, I read about Decker and then Zapruder, in the New York Times; and was relieved to see in the latest Mid.Mirror that Penn has resisted the temptation to assign numbers to the deceased, in this instance. I am amused by what he had to say about Mrs. Brussel (I did not know that she was travelling with a "companion" or a "fiance!").

I did receive Hoch's paper, which he seems to have sent far and wide while asking that it be kept "confidential". Enclosed is a copy of the letter I sent him, on the same day that I received his paper, in a boiling rage. You were certainly right about his views on the WR.

I'm so sorry that you've been under the weather but hope that your cold is gone now. If the bibliography was useful to you, I'm pleased; and thanks for returning it so promptly.

I can imagine how you must miss Danny. He is a dear person. I hope he gets fatter and fatter...

Allegra sends her licks and pats, and I send my warm affection, to you and Buck and the whole household.

As ever,