EDITOR M. S. ARNONI

Dear Mr. Dymond:

I am writing you as the chief counsel of Mr. Clay Shaw. Here enclosed is a tearsheet from our October issue containing a relevant editorial, "Garrison and Warren: Anything in Common?"

My skepticism vis-a-vis District Attorney Jim Garrison's case against your client causes me to seek verification of the contention made by many of his supporters that the postponements of the trial of Mr. Shaw are due to actions by defense counsel only. Is this truly so?

I would be grateful to you for writing me, either on or off record, to explain the reasons why Mr. Shaw's trial has not yet been held.

I should appreciate your cooperation.

Sincerely,

M. S. Arnoni
