April 1971

Relying solely on the official documents and papers of the Warren Commission, I have assembled a chronological account of the conflicting statements and testimony in the matter of Charles Givens and suggested why they raise profound misgivings about the Commission's findings. I am confident that no spokesman for the Warren Commission will come forward with clarifications that effectively reconcile the contradictions in the evidence or that can justify the embodiment in the Warren Report of a version of Givens' story that is incompatible with all his earlier statements, without acknowledgment that there had been previous, different versions by the same witness.
